

This was a visit to a woman who is in Chemo for breast cancer. In fact she had her Chemo yesterday and was so sick she had to leave the room to be sick at one point. Her rent is $605/month and she gets $733 in SSDI. Because of medical expenses, she has gotten behind on her rent and owed $982 with late fees included. This woman is struggling. We went to the office and got them to remove the late fees of $90. This left $892. Because this was a visit in tandem with another conference, we agreed to pay $400 and the other conference agreed to pay $300 of this. The management said they would work with her and allow her to owe the rest until she gets her next check. Debra cried and cried. I have never seen anyone so grateful for help. She is a wonderful Christian woman and I am so glad we could help her. I also gave her 2 bus passes since this is her only transportation and Frankie did not have any.
